We have fire safety doors in our house which mean the doors automatically slam shut which has always worried me with three young children. I had a piece of cardboard previously slotted in the door to stop my youngest daughter's door slamming shut so this flexi door hook is a great alternative. It is very flexible and hooks over each side of the handle. My three year old is tall enough to reach her handle and I was worried that she would be tempted to want to play with the hook but she hasn't done so far. At first, the hook occasionally came away from one of the handles and I wasn't sure it would work properly for us, but after a while the rubber has remained in the shape I need it, and stays perfectly secure. It's ideal for a child's bedroom and I feel confident that little fingers won't be trapped. Durable, easy to use and good value for money. I would certainly recommend to other parents.

We have used several different types of door guards, as my children are door slammers!! This one is great quality and very easy to use. It's flexibility means it'd fit any door and has other uses (window protection etc). I also liked it because when in use the door isn't wide open, we used it on one of our bedroom doors and so the door couldn't be slammed in the night but wasn't letting lots of light in. There are cheaper options out there but they aren't as good quality, and so I would recommend this.

I received the flexi door safety and was surprised at how it looked. I was expecting the usual piece of rubber that slots onto the top of the door. This is completely different. The instructions are simple to follow, hook around the handle on one side of the door and hook around the handle on the other side which then stops the door being shut by small people. I have a door with a broken catch, between my kitchen and utility room, and the children have always taken great delight in trying to shut me in there, as I need a tool to get back out, this foiled them completely and stopped me worrying about them slamming their fingers in the door in the process. I think the price is right for the peace of mind it brings, as little people do like shutting doors! It protects their fingers and, in my case, stopped them shutting me in the utility room! Works well and good quality, as it's made of rubber instead of foam, this feels like it could last for years. A must if you have toddlers or crawling babies.
